Ayurveda...The Art of Healthy Living

Ayurveda is the ancient practice of focusing on daily and seasonal routines to maintain health and balance in one's life. Originating in India, this lifestyle healing model has become more popular in recent years in the West. Through an understanding of the interaction between our personal body types, our environment and the qualities of our food, we can start a practice of balance and preventative care within ourselves. Learn the philosophy of Ayurveda, including finding out your body type, breathing exercises, food combining and daily self-care routines. Taught by Gwen Nagano, Ayurvedic wellness counselor trained both in the U.S. and India. If you enjoy yoga, meditation, hypnotherapy and stress relief practices, you'll love to learn about Ayurveda!

Economic Summit partners: north county poised and ready to land investment

The cities of Marysville, Arlington and the Tulalip Tribes in May held a North Snohomish Economic Summit at Tulalip Resort to reinforce the message to prospective business ventures that the governments are working collaboratively to create a more prosperous and thriving future for our businesses and families.

“Our commitment to partnerships creates the kind of political and economic environment that can help sway a major employer’s decision on where to invest, build or relocate,” Mayor Jon Nehring says.

The summit focused on sharing the assets that give North Snohomish County a competitive edge in attracting new business investment as the economy revives and employment rates rebound. Nehring, Tribal Chairman Mel Sheldon, Arlington Mayor Margaret Larson and key staff members provided plenty of local examples of joint planning on land use, transportation, infrastructure and economic development strategy

Foremost is the area’s abundant availability of commercial, industrial and business park acreage. Marysville and Arlington combined have more than 3,250 acres of manufacturing and light industrial-zoned land clustered within the Smokey Point area (1000-plus) and the Arlington Airport (2,251 acres).

Bob Drewel, Puget Sound Regional Council Executive Director and former Snohomish County Executive, provides opening remarks as moderator for the annual North Snohomish County Summit last May at the Tulalip Resort. To his left are the elected leaders of the three communities who headlined the summit to emphasize their partnership on regional economic development. From left are Arlington Mayor Margaret Larson, Tulalip Tribes Chairman Mel Sheldon and Marysville Mayor Jon Nehring.

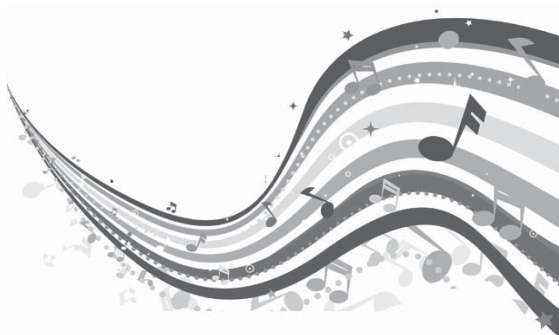

With speculation that Boeing may build a manufacturing “supersite” for its next generation 737, with new plane assembly at Boeing’s Everett plant a possibility, the acreage available in north Marysville and Arlington would be a solid candidate for a supplier supersite.

“Marysville has a great story to tell,” Nehring says.

“Marysville is a hub of opportunity in the north county, a full-service city with a diverse economic climate. We place high value on the partnerships with our neighboring communities, we provide responsive government leadership, and we’re committed to developing a major commercial-light industrial employment center in our north end to generate good-paying jobs so that residents and future generations can work where they live.”

Dust off that horn - the community band needs you!

Shine up those brass instruments and polish those strings and woodwinds – Marysville is starting a community band!

If you play an instrument – even if you’re rusty - the newly-forming Marysville Strawberry Band (MSB) is seeking interested musicians ready to learn, play and enjoy performing in the Marysville community.

Under the co-directorship of Totem Middle School Band Director Peter Joseph and Nathan Sachman, the Marysville Strawberry Band will learn and perform orchestral and Big Band pieces that will appeal to a broad audience.

The MSB will meet weekly on Wednesdays from 6-8 p.m. from September to June. The location will be announced before the first meeting. Musicians must have their own instrument and have played for three years or more. Registration is easy and affordable.

Rehearsals will follow a collegiate rehearsal style, and may vary to include small sections of pieces until mastered. Sectional work will occur depending on need. Performance preparation and practice outside of rehearsal a must.

The Marysville Strawberry Band’s mission is to create an organization of bands that would include wind ensemble, jazz band and/or chamber ensembles.

Class fee is $20 per quarter or $50 for the year (September through June). Sheet Music and materials are provided.

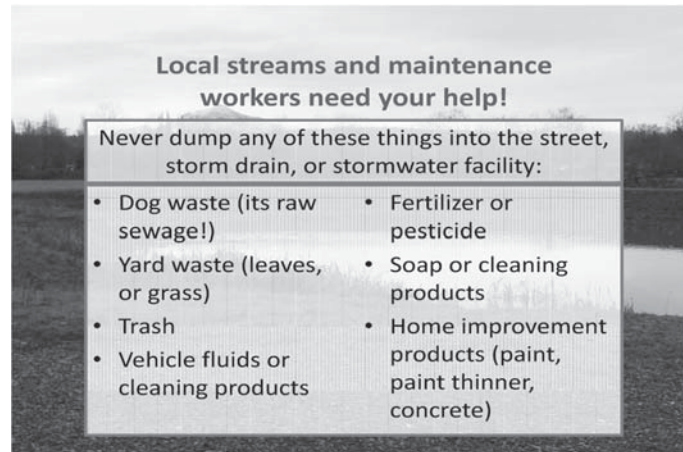

For more information contact Peter Joseph at (425) 239-1887.

City Surface Water Management reminds residents that storm drains are just for rain

Activities on land in our daily lives - from washing cars and maintaining lawns to driving a car with leaky fluids - have an impact on local waterways and marine life.

If left unchecked, the litter, leaves, and automobile fluids that have collected on the street surfaces of our community will flow along with rainwater, untreated, into water bodies like the Quilceda/Allen Creek tributaries and Snohomish River Delta.

The City's Surface Water Management Division in Public Works reminds residents that cigarette butts, leaves, lawn clippings, and trash don't belong in street gutters near their homes. Food and other biodegradable waste and litter laying in street gutters, sometimes referred to as "green waste," can travel with rainwater into storm drains, as well as creeks, rivers, lakes, streams and the Puget Sound. The drain is just for rain.

"Street gutters and storm drains are designed to remove rainwater and prevent flooding," says Kari Chennault, Surface Water Program Engineer. "When litter and green waste are allowed to enter our community's storm drain system, there can be serious health and safety consequences for people and marine life that come in contact with these pollutants."

The Quilceda/Allen watershed encompasses an area of 49 square miles; Allen Creek drains about 11 square miles and Quilceda Creek drains 38 square miles. The watershed is a public resource to be managed and enjoyed by a variety of watershed users - from residents and businesses, to the land and marine animals that call it home.

Daily actions on land pollute Puget Sound with yard chemicals, oil, grease, soap and bacteria from pet waste and septic systems that are in disrepair. Stormwater flows over roads and yards and into storm drains and ditches, then empties directly into local streams, rivers, lakes and the Puget Sound where it remains.

The City Surface Water Management Division has several informative pages on the City website to help you become better informed.

For more information, or to report illegal dumping or spills, call (360) 363-8100 or visit <http://marysvillewa.gov> and click on Departments/Public Works.

State DOE honors Wastewater Treatment Plant with outstanding performance award

The state Department of Ecology in June presented the Marysville Wastewater Treatment Plant with the 2010 Wastewater Treatment Plant Outstanding Performance Award.

DOE staff evaluated treatment plans in Washington for compliance with effluent limits, monitoring and reporting requirement, spill prevention planning, pretreatment and overall operational demands of the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) permit.

The Marysville plant achieved full compliance throughout 2010, DOE officials said.

"We're honored to be recognized with this award," said Doug Bye, City Water Quality Manager. "We have a great crew of skilled and trained operations and maintenance personnel who work together to maintain compliance at the treatment plant. They take great pride in their work and recognize the importance of NPDES permit requirements."

The City of Marysville treats and safely discharges wastewater at a current rate of about 5 million gallons per day for more than 13,000 connections.

FAQ: Know how to report a streetlight outage or similar problem?

Q: How do I report a streetlight outage or related problem?

A: Contact the Marysville Public Works Department at (360) 363-8022, or use the Report Streetlight Problem form on the City website at <http://marysvillewa.gov> To ensure an accurate and timely response when reporting a streetlight that is out of service or is staying on permanently, please have the following information at hand:

- ☐ The nearest address where the streetlight pole is located, or;
- ☐ the streetlight pole number located on a metal plate that faces the street about 6 feet up on the pole, or displayed on the lamp face (see right);
- ☐ nature of the problem (examples: Pole down, light burned out, light on in daylight, light goes on then off, glare, etc.)

Streetlights are maintained by Snohomish County PUD, and are usually fixed within two or three weeks of the problem being reported, depending upon crew availability in the area. We appreciate your help in finding lights that are out or are malfunctioning.

Navy, Marysville residents enlist for successful Graffiti Paint Out

Active duty sailors paint over fencing prone to graffiti tagging along 67th Avenue NE south of Grove Street. About 20 sailors mobilized with other individuals in a one-day Graffiti Paint Out event on July 23.

Fifty individuals and families grabbed brushes and paint rollers to join sailors and City personnel for Marysville's first-ever Graffiti Paint Out on July 23.

Mayor Jon Nehring, himself among those outfitted with a roller and paint tray, deemed the pro-active community-wide event a success.

"Our purpose was to send a clear message to graffiti vandals and taggers that our community has zero tolerance for graffiti, and I believe our efforts demonstrated that," Nehring was joined by other elected officials, City Councilmember and Graffiti Task Force founder Jeff Vaughan and his son, Jesse, and fellow Councilmember Michael Stevens and his son, Aden.

Armed with neighborhood street maps identifying graffiti "hot zones" in various locations around the city, teams of volunteers spent three hours painting over fences where property owners' homes and public places including city parks have become the target of graffiti.

Eighteen active duty sailors from Navy Recruiting District Seattle assembled by Petty Officer 3rd Class Chris Martin took on the task of painting over street-side fencing along 67th Avenue from Grove Street south. The group also donated $1,000 towards painting supplies and materials purchased at a low cost by E & E Lumber.

Graffiti is a serious problem that negatively impacts commerce, reduces property values, creates blight and increases the propensity for gang-related activity, says Code Enforcement Officer Paul Rochon, who has spent countless hours removing graffiti. If not removed within 24-48 hours, studies show the frequency and amount will increase.

The City has been aggressive in education and enforcement efforts that have cracked down on graffiti. Graffiti abatement is a key focus in Police's efforts to promote neighborhood livability, but it remains a problem, says Nehring.

If you see graffiti or defaced property in your neighborhood, report it promptly by using the Citizen Request Tracker "Report Graffiti" Form under the "I Want to" button on the City's new website at <http://marysvillewa.gov>. To report suspicious activity, call 911.

City works with homeowners to provide free graffiti removal

City officials are reaching over the fence to help neighbors who have fallen victim to graffiti.

Under a new initiative developed by the City's Graffiti Task Force, the city will ensure removal of graffiti from fences at no expense to homeowners. The main focus is fences that are visible from streets and high-traffic areas prone to attacks by taggers and graffiti vandals.

To participate, a Graffiti Abatement Program letter and Consent to Enter Onto Property to Abate Graffiti form must be signed that gives City workers access to private frontage to remove future graffiti at no cost to the homeowner. Forms are available online at marysvillewa.gov.

Choice of three earth tone paint colors: Red Cedar, Beachgrass and Baked Brick.

For more info, contact Code Enforcement Officer Paul Rochon at (360) 363-8202 or email prochon@marysvillewa.gov.

Marysville Night Out Against Crime draws crowd to learn more about policing, fire, community services

Hundreds of residents and families turned out to enjoy National Night Against Crime on Aug. 2 in Comeford Park in downtown Marysville, a fun and educational evening that showcased the best in crime-fighting and crime prevention.

The evening connected community members for one-on-one conversations with officers of the Marysville Police Department, Marysville Fire District, Tulalip Police and other law enforcement agencies, as well as crime prevention officials and social service agencies that assist crime victims.

"I was very impressed with the turnout," Marysville Police Chief Rich Smith says. "Citizens and community service organizations are vital partners with police in making our community a safer place. National Night Out is our way of sharing the benefits of crime prevention and personal safety programs available that extend well beyond a single night."

Crisis Support Chaplains offer hope, comfort and support at scenes of deepest crisis

Marysville Chaplain Crisis Support Coordinator Greg Kanehen can still remember in horrific detail the 2009 Thanksgiving holiday night when he was called out to do a death notification after a quadruple fatal collision on Highway 9 near Marysville. A drunken driver ended the life of a high school teacher and his wife and a next-door neighbor couple.

One couple had two teenage daughters living at home. That late night and early morning time supporting the two daughters until extended family arrived left an indelible impression.

At the most painful and difficult times like these, chaplains can be at the ready to offer hope, comfort and support to those in trauma, often involving the sudden death of a loved one.

The Marysville Police Department and Fire District Chaplains program is served by six volunteer on-call chaplains. When called out at the discretion of officers, medics or firefighters, their mission is to serve the emotional, psychological and spiritual needs of individuals in times of crises, trauma or distress.

While the term "chaplain" carries religious connotations, they are more aptly considered "Crisis Support Officers" on the scene. Chaplains provide emotional and psychological support for individuals and families facing crisis, death, suicide, and death notifications. They serve the greater Marysville area and also work with other agencies including the Snohomish County Sheriff's Office, Tulalip Police and Washington State Patrol.

"My heart really goes out to the first responders," Kanehen said. "They face difficult situations on a daily basis. As a team, we're grateful to be able to provide support as is needed."

Chaplains undergo a minimum of 100 hours of training that includes the Chaplains' Academy held at Washington Criminal Justice Training Center (WCJTC) in Burien. Additional training includes Critical Incident Stress Management (CISM), working in emergency response environments, pastoral/psychological components, legal liability, substance abuse and suicide intervention,

In partnership with the International Confederation of Police Chaplains and the Federation of Fire Chaplains, the chaplains continue to sharpen their skills and develop a network with other chaplains. Their certification complies with ICPC and FFC national standards as developed by law and fire agencies.

Each chaplain is on call for 24 hours on their given day of the week, and rotate one weekend every five to be on call. They have become a cohesive team, serving in many crisis support settings.

Police Cmdr. Ralph Krusey and Asst. Fire Chief Martin McFalls are liaisons to the Chaplains Program. Police Lt. Darin Rasmussen and McFalls were instrumental in getting the chaplains program going 15 years ago.

When asked how he prepares, Kanehen said you let the academic and intellectual part of the brain take over, then rely on prayer, compassion and wisdom. He said he is also fortunate to have an understanding wife.

"As crisis support chaplains, we just want to be in the right place at the right time to help somebody," Kanehen says.

"You need to realize that sometimes, silence – not talking, is what is needed for a sensitive moment – just being present."

156th Street Overcrossing Project

The 156th Street overcrossing project will connect the east side of I-5 with Lakewood neighborhoods and shopping, while alleviating traffic congestion at the 172nd Street (SR 521) interchange.

Lakewood Triangle Access/156th St overcrossing construction set to begin in mid-August

Construction on the much-anticipated Lakewood Triangle Access/156th Street I-5 overcrossing project in Marysville's north end gets underway in mid-August.

The two-lane bridge overpass will connect Smokey Point Boulevard and Smokey Point Master Plan future jobs center east of the freeway with Twin Lakes Boulevard and the growing Lakewood residential and commercial areas to the west.

The City Council in June awarded a $9.7 million contract to Renton-based Guy F. Atkinson Construction.

Mayor Jon Nehring says the project is key to economic vitality, and will be a catalyst for future commercial, light industrial and residential growth in Marysville's north end.

"It will help our commercial business in the Lakewood area, as well as provide infrastructure here to support future business on the east side of the freeway," he said. "The overcrossing will also provide a tremendous traffic improvement for our citizens who now have to go the busy 172nd Street route to access these businesses."

This project is unique because of how it will be funded: through a public private partnership, or local improvement district (LID) that includes property owners in a pre-determined area that will benefit from the public road improvement. As federal and state transportation dollars have dried up, and as the need for highly efficient surface transportation systems has continued to grow in the region, the role of the private sector has reemerged as a means to finance transportation infrastructure.

Additional elements of the project include:

- ☐ Construction of new surface streets;
- ☐ Storm-water and infiltration systems;
- ☐ Sanitary sewers;
- ☐ Water mains;
- ☐ Roadway illumination and pedestrian facilities; and
- ☐ New traffic signal at the intersection of 156th and Smokey Point Boulevard.

Long-term plans by City officials would seek to add on- and off-ramps to the overpass.

Visit the City website at <http://marysvillewa.gov> for project and traffic updates.

Mayor honors volunteers of the month

Mayor Jon Nehring presented several recipients with community Volunteer of the Month honors for their selfless dedication to making a difference in their community. Congratulations to the following recipients:

March - Michael Thomas, Eagle Scout for his contribution of teaching aid games and books to preschool programs including the Marysville School District's Early Childhood Education and Assistance Program (ECEAP) and his local church. Thomas is a Pathways of Choice student at Marysville-Pilchuck High School (MPHS).

April - Dan Steffen for coaching and mentoring students in the Marysville-Pilchuck High School NJROTC air rifle marksmanship program, where is Olympic and national level-caliber training gains them not only marksman skills, but self-confidence and self-discipline, too. He is President of the Marysville Kiwanis Club.

Steffen

May - Riley Doolen for the more than 600 volunteer hours he has contributed to help staff and patrons at the Sno-Isle Regional Library Marysville branch. He has filed customer holds, shelved media items, and helped in many other ways

Olason

June - Monica "Mo" Olason for her hardworking coordination of the Marysville-Tulalip American Cancer Society Relay for Life on June 11-12 that became a life-changing overnight fundraising success. By the end of closing ceremonies on June 12, Relay for Life raised $187,757 in the fight to find a cure for cancer, exceeding the campaign target goal by $84,000.

July - Doug and Leslie Buell for the success of their Marysville Dog Owners Group and volunteer team that maintains Strawberry Fields for Rover Off-Leash Dog Park, and Poochapalooza, an outdoor dog event fundraiser that this year drew more than 2,500 people on July 9 and raised about $3,500 for off-leash park needs.

Want to nominate a Marysville citizen for their selfless volunteerism? Download the nomination form at http://marysvillewa.gov/government/volunteer_of_the_month.htm.

Police issued Brie Stewart a Special Commendation for foiling a bicycle theft from her employee Play it Again Sports' store. She pursued the suspectduring which her pursuit and by police led to the arrest of a Skagit County man last February.

Executive Assistant Lynn Schroeder in the Executive Department was named Employee of the Month for May. She has worked for the City since 2007. Often the first voice heard when contacting the Mayor or Chief Administrative Officer (CAO), she seamlessly handled the transition of former and current mayors and CAOs last year. She also coordinates many of the City's meetings, including the Volunteer Appreciation Banquet, and director & City Council retreats.

Innovative Service Awards presented.... Congratulations to the officers of the Marysville Police Department and members of the City Wellness Committee, who separately were presented with the Mayor's "Dare to Soar" Innovative Service Award. Both groups put into practice ideas that yielded taxpayer cost-savings. Police were commended for condensing the time needed for required Emergency Vehicle Operation Course Training from 5 to 3 days, saving $16,330 in overtime costs. Wellness Committee members were commended for their health and fitness measures in securing an Association of Washington Cities WellCity Award that will result in cost savings of $46,000 that the city pays for medical coverage for employees.

Committee Reappointments: Gary Clark and Harv Jubie were reappointed to continue their work on the Salary Commission, and Marvetta Toler was reappointed to the Planning Commission. Toler also serves on the Mayor's Diversity Advisory Committee.

MESSAGE FROM THE MAYOR

Decisive action on budget keeping City on right financial track

With budget planning among departments under way in earnest for 2012, now is a good time to review how the City has fared since a year ago when we took decisive action to reform the way government in Marysville conducts the public's financial business.

In preparing the 2011 budget, we drafted it with the priority of looking beyond 2011 and creating financial stability for the long term by reducing expenditures, replenishing depleted reserves, and paying off city debt more aggressively in the future.

Our nation and region struggled under the financial pressures of an anemic economy, and still is. Marysville fared better than many jurisdictions, and that also remains true today through our philosophy of "living within our means."

We faced a 2010 revenue shortfall and 2011 revenue projections that forced immediate budget cuts. City departments reduced operating expenditures and the employee workforce was reduced 10% from 2010 through layoffs and removal of vacant positions. We began to replenish reserves as we plan for continued fiscal uncertainty in the overall economy.

Numbers to date appear to support our position that if program cuts and reductions in force were deep enough and spending kept to just essentials, it would forestall similar drastic measures in 2012, regardless of whether we saw the economy and job market turn the corner. Moreover, our philosophy is serving the City well as we anticipate being able to further bolster reserves in the new year. To sum up: we anticipate a status quo budget with the same cautious, conservative approach that has carried us through the current year.

Cherry Point Coal Export Terminal

A proposal by SSA Marine of Seattle to build a coal export terminal at Cherry Point north of Bellingham will generate a significant increase in train traffic, disrupting business activity in Marysville and causing intolerably longer and more frequent waits for commuters.

As many as 9 trains per day could rumble through the city on the way to the terminal south of the BP refinery laden with up to 54 million tons of Wyoming and Montana coal and other bulk cargoes that would be loaded on large ships bound for China and other Asian markets. If those trains return south empty the way they came, the 18 trains per day would equate to about one coal train every 1.3 hours, all day long, in addition to existing train traffic with which we're already familiar, and is likely to increase when the economy rebounds.

Moreover, trains could reach lengths twice as long as they are today (1-1/2 miles, or 120-150 cars each), blocking multiple crossings at once.

State and federal agencies with regulatory powers over the railroads must be pressed to ensure that rail traffic impacts on cities along the proposed route receive intense study from an economic and transportation standpoint, and urge a transparent and thorough review process.

As your Mayor, I will continue to lobby for alternative site analysis as well as mitigation for any potential negative impacts to Marysville's citizens and businesses.

My first priority is to the citizens in Marysville, seeing to it that their safety, quality of life and livelihood are sustained. I am certainly for job growth, but the jobs from this terminal would be 65 miles north of here near Ferndale, while Marysville and other communities would be left to deal with the negative impacts.

Cedar Grove compost odor ruling

The Washington State Pollution Control Hearings Board issued a unanimous decision on July 14 finding Cedar Grove Composting in violation of the law, and upholding all 17 of the most recent violations issued by the Puget Sound Clean Air Agency for its Everett-Smith Island and Maple Valley facilities.

The Board ruling noted that the large volume of odor complaints associated with Cedar Grove's composting facilities are odors of an ongoing, repetitive nature, and have interfered with the reasonable enjoyment of life and property of a large number of surrounding residents.

Cedar Grove is not within our city limits, but the negative impact - foul odor - that it imposes upon us that originates from its operations most certainly is. We support the goals and benefits of composting yard and food waste, and recognize that Cedar Grove is a growth business looking to profit and expand, but it must not come at the expense of our quality of life.

Marysville goes live with new website, email alerts, online requests

Redesigned site offers latest technologies, interactive features and services

The City of Marysville in May went live with its newly redesigned website at <http://marysvillewa.gov>.

The switch from the City's former website to a new dynamic, interactive site designed in cooperation with government website experts at CivicPlus is complete, but employees will continue to expand on the volume of information and features available.

Visitors to the Marysville homepage will notice immediately the dramatic new look of the site. In addition to its appearance, the new site offers many improved features designed to help visitors find more quickly the information and services they need.

The site's interactive features include the following:

□ "Notify Me" allows users to sign up to be notified via email or text message of news, emergencies, road closures, alerts, special events, agenda postings and announcements;

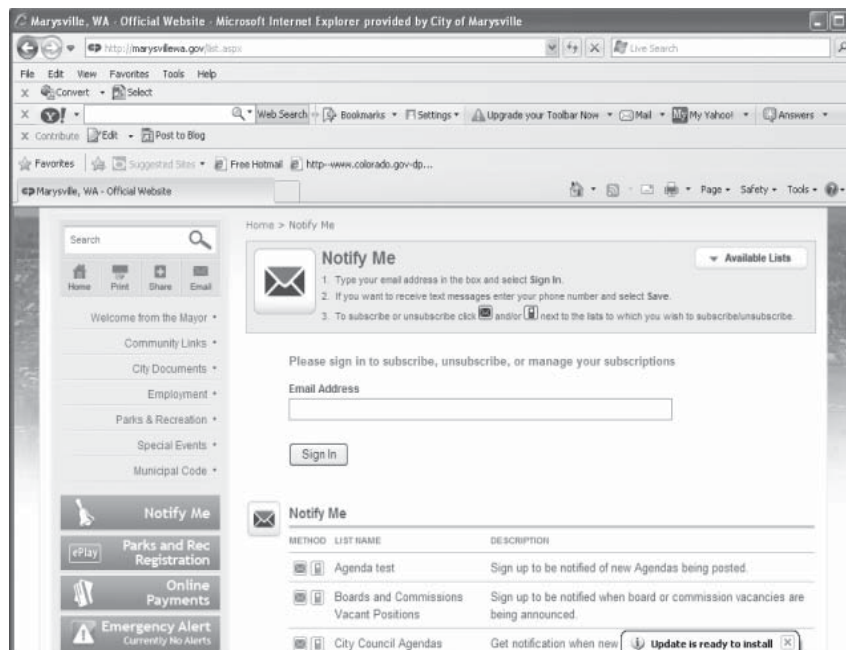

□ "Request Tracker" allows users to submit requests online;

□ "How do I?," search feature to get quick answers to common questions;

□ New communication features that enable people to easily submit feedback, report concerns, read press releases and news about the City, and "follow us" through social media like Facebook and Twitter;

□ Resident, Visitor and Business Tabs providing a one-stop viewing source of information and links tailored to the needs of the type of site visitor.

As with the prior website, residents will be able to report graffiti, potholes and other problems through online forms using the new Citizen Request Tracker feature, only now they will also be able to report these concerns on the go from smartphones. All that is required is a downloadable "app" for iPhones, available through the iPhone store. An app for Android-powered phones will be released later this year.

Notify Me allows users to sign up to be notified via email or text message of news, emergencies, road closures, alerts, special events, agenda postings and announcements.

Mayor Jon Nehring says the team redesigned the site from the citizen's perspective.

"Our website is an excellent way to build good relationships with citizens and make visitors feel welcome," Nehring says. "The new design allows us to present information in a smart and efficient way, whether that information is department-based or service-based. Making information easier to find is a continuing priority as the new site evolves."

Customer service and convenience are the focus of the new website, says Doug Buell, the City's Community Information Officer and website manager.

He says that while the site was months in the making, the City continues to receive ideas via email from visitors to make it more informative. "We welcome any feedback and ideas you have."

Between April and July 2011, the Marysville City Council took action on 84 agenda items. Below are highlights from their deliberations. To view actual Council minutes, visit the City website at marysvillewa.gov, then click on "City Information and Records."

APRIL

◆ Adopted an ordinance amending City laws that regulate "itinerant merchants," or peddlers, solicitors and street vendors. Door-to-door salespeople and street vendors (fundraising nonprofits and certain exempt services excluded) are required to have and carry a business license, and may only peddle and solicit from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Oct. 1-April 30 and 10 a.m.-8 p.m. from May 1-Sept. 20., unless consent already given.

MAY

◆ Authorized Mayor to Sign a renewed Interlocal Agreement for $14,188 with the Snohomish Regional Drug and Gang Task Force.

◆ Authorized Mayor to sign an agreement with the state Department of Transportation for a $90,000 grant to purchase signal controller upgrades and high speed communications equipment for traffic signals located along SR 528 (4th Street) and SR 529/State Avenue/Smokey Point Blvd. The City is contributing $12,150.

JUNE

◆ Awarded a $9.7 million contract to Guy F. Atkinson Construction for the Lakewood Triangle Access/156th Street Overcrossing Project, a public-private partnership project (see Page 32 for more details).

◆ Authorized the Mayor to execute a first amendment to the 2003 agreement between the City and Snohomish County PUD for water supply, extended from the original Joint Operating Agreement, that commits PUD to sell and transfer its water system in an "overlap area" in the Sunnyside area at such time as the City annexed the area. A state law enabled the sale of the utility to proceed.

JULY

◆ After a public hearing, Council passed a resolution adopting the Six-Year Transportation Improvement Program (2012-2017) as required by state law. The total program including 37 projects totals $336 million. City engineers will seeking grants and funding from other sources to ease the burden on taxpayers.

◆ After a public hearing, the Council adopted an interim ordinance declaring a six-month moratorium on medical marijuana dispensaries and collective gardens. A partial veto of legislation signed by the Governor left some ambiguity in local regulations and zoning; the moratorium will give the City time to identify a process for review of dispensaries and collective gardens.

The Gobi - Labyrinth of Sand

Turning back is not an option - at age 63, Helen Thayer with her husband Bill, 74, walked the entire distance west to east across the Mongolian Gobi Desert. In a journey of discovery they covered a distance of almost 1,600 miles, enduring sandstorms, 126-degree temperatures and at one point a desperate search for water. This is a story of courage, perseverance and motivation to rise above adversity to reach a goal and make a dream come true. Compelling, rare photography tells of the Thayers' close interaction with the Gobi Desert nomads who still live the centuries-old life-style of their ancestors.
